

*May 18
2005
Bob
Leon
&
Gary Andeen*

A day on Oregon's world-famous Nestucca River

in pursuit of its most mysterious salmon breeds:

The yellow-throat gosling trout – a smolt and under the minimum keeper size.

A proud Bob with one of the Nestucca's infamous man-eating cutthroat trout

(alternate caption?)

First spotting this season of the elusive Nestucca Jersey Salmon

(alternate caption?)

*Ever-helpful guide
Tim Barnett asking
“Should we milk it or net it?”*

(alternate caption)

Bob adroitly plays hooked Jersey Salmon toward boat

(alternate caption?)

Reeling it in.

Tim asking for larger net.

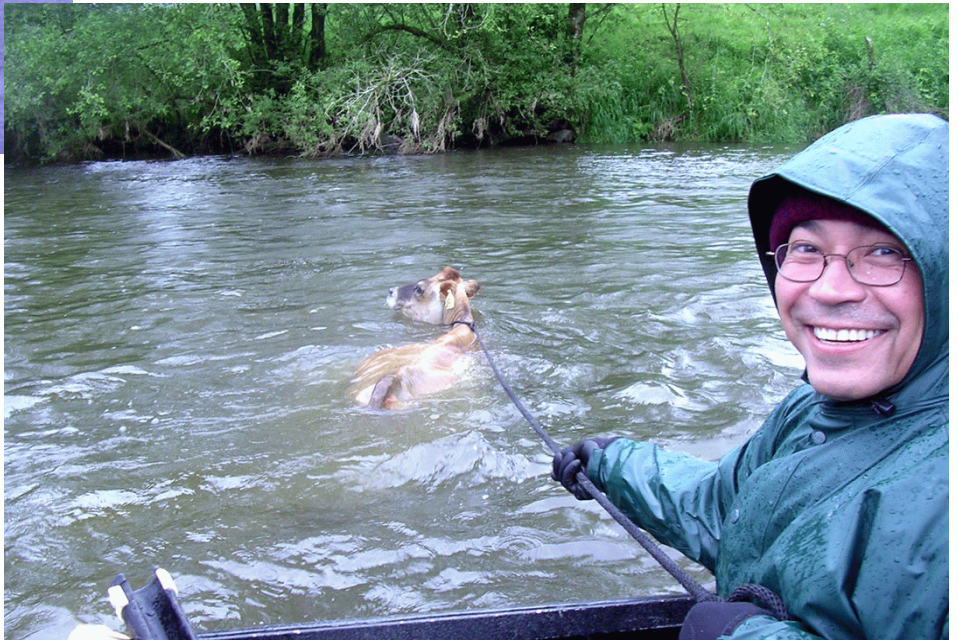

(alternate caption?)

A VERY satisfied client.

“First Jersey Salmon of the season!! The filets will be great!”

Bob? . . .

(alternate caption?)

Oh darn!

Tim looked it up and found that all Jersey Salmon on this section of the Nestucca River are catch and release.

(alternate caption?)

*Takin out.
Good memories.*

Certified witnesses to all the events.

“Do pictures lie?

This was an udderly unbelievable day.

Only in Oregon!”

(alternate caption?)